Testimonial from our client:
 "Since completing the program, I feel better overall! I exercise more, I sleep better, and it's easier for me to prepare my healthy meals. I still eat the foods I love, just in smaller portions, and have learned how to enjoy more vegetables too!"
 — 54 year-old female

PARTICIPANT RECRUITMENT FOR

THE "ENHANCED" STUDY

Adult Nutrition Cooking Education for Diabetes Prevention in Clark county

We are seeking participants for an exciting research study focused on type 2 diabetes prevention, increasing fruit and vegetable consumption, improving body composition, reducing HbA1c%, managing cardiometabolic risk, and enhancing gut microbiome diversity. Are you interested in being a part of this journey towards a healthier, more vibrant you?

You may qualify to participate if:

- You are 18 or over
- You have pre-diabetes or are at an increased risk for type 2 diabetes
- You have not been diagnosed with type 2 diabetes
- You have not been diagnosed with cardiovascular, or metabolic diseases including uncontrolled high blood pressure

Potential benefits:

- Receiving comprehensive information about lipid levels, glucose control, body composition, and your cardiometabolic health
- Gaining insights into physical activity levels, sleep patterns, dietary quality, and stress
- Produce boxes will be provided each week of the cooking classes
- There will be partial compensation for your travel and time (gift card for $100 for study completion)

Participation involves:

- Attending in-person cooking classes at the UNLV Nutrition Center once per week for 6 weeks
- Blood sugar measurement using Continuous Glucose Monitoring
- Blood fat measurements using Finger-sticks
- HbA1c% measurements
- Body composition assessments
- Blood pressure monitoring
- Gut microbiome composition assessments
- Physical activity measurements using Accelerometer
- Completing questionnaires
- Total hours of participation will be 15.5 hours + 1 follow-up via phone or email

For more information contact:
Keren Morales M.S. student in Nutrition sciences at UNLV at moralk10@unlv.nevada.edu or the Principal Investigator, Dr. Sara Rosenkranz at Sara.Rosenkranz@unlv.edu.

Scan the QR code for more information

Dr. Rosenkranz from the UNLV School of Integrated Health Sciences, in partnership with UNR Extension, is leading a research study related to nutrition education and Diabetes prevention and is currently recruiting participants. We would greatly appreciate your assistance with sharing the attached flyer with your network and potential eligible participants. For questions, please contact Keren Morales Moralk10@unlv.nevada.edu or Sara Rosenkranz Sara.Rosenkranz@unlv.edu.
